

09

17

2012

[Free Food Safety Webinars Now Offered By OMAFRA \[1\]](#)

Are you a farmer or prepared food producer? Are you interested in learning more about the advantages of food safety and how they can directly impact your business? If so, you may want to consider registering for some of the brand new online seminars that are now being offered through OMAFRA.

The seven informative presentations will be given throughout the fall of 2012 and the winter of 2013, with topics that include:

- Food Safety on Multi-Commodity Farms (August 29, 2012)
- Hygiene and Sanitation (September 26, 2012)
- Preparing for an On-Site Farm Food Safety Audit (October 23, 2012)
- Using Food Safety to Market Your Products (November 27, 2012)
- Manure, Compost and Compost Teas (December 11, 2012)
- Getting Started in Food Safety (January 22, 2013)
- 3-2-1 Assessment of Your Farm Operation for Food Safety (February 28, 2012)

These are all free of charge, so head on over to the OMAFRA Food Safety Website [2] where you'll find brief summaries of each webinar as well as links to the registration pages.

09

17

2012

[Farms At Work @ The Purple Onion Festival \[3\]](#)

Come on out and celebrate local food and community! Farms At Work will be at the second annual Purple Onion Festival, this Sunday, September 23rd from 11am to 5pm in Millenium Park. You'll find our new Program Coordinator, Jay Adam, in the Main Entry Area, proudly promoting all the new and exciting developments of the farming community of East Central Ontario. Admission is totally free!

Visit The Purple Onion Festival website [4] for more details.

•

News/Events - September 2012

Published on Farms at Work (<http://www.farmsatwork.ca>)

Links

[1] <http://www.farmsatwork.ca/news/free-food-safety-webinars-now-offered-omafra> [2]
<http://www.omafra.gov.on.ca/english/food/foodsafety/producers/webinars.htm> [3]
<http://www.farmsatwork.ca/news/farms-work-purple-onion-festival> [4]
<http://www.thepurpleonion.org/>